The court decided also that Alexander Granger is not a fit person for receiver and refused to recognize him as such, naming John Hately, a well known business man, as receiver and ordering an election for an overseer on the third Tuesday in September, at which all members of the church resident in Zion City are entitled to vote whether male or female. The effect of this decision is to place the industrial affairs of Zion City in the hands of the court through Receiver Hately, while the spiritual affairs come under the supervision of Deacon John Lewis, recognized as spokesman for Dowie, said of the decision: "If the decree of Judge Landis stands the Christian Catholic Church is uprooted. The church was founded on the theory of theocracy and how can an election under the laws of Illinois proclaim a leader? I who shall be first apostle."

Dowie refused to talk without further study of the decision.
